Douglas MacArthur's claim that a presidential "silencing" order had blocked the senate investigating committee in ascertaining the facts about MacArthur's discharge. Knowland said a presidential "gag" order made trouble for MacArthur last March when he served the Chinese Red field command an "ultimatum" to quit fighting or risk direct attack on China. Hickenlooper said that any silencing of the military leads to state department "domination" of the defense department and that present military chiefs of staff are too prone to be guided by "political" considerations. Committee Chairman Richard B. Russell, D. Ga., said he hoped to end the lengthy investigation of MacArthur's dismissal and Far Eastern policy matters—now in an eighth week—on Monday after hearing Rear and Maj. Gen. Emmet (Rosie) O'Donnell, airforce strategic bombing expert. But Russell admitted a "possibility" that a new and highly controversial document turned up Thursday by Sen. Styles Bridges, R. N.H., could change all this. Bridges produced what he termed an April, 1945, army intelligence study written by some 50 "experts" including a large group of army colonels. The documents took a diametrically opposed view on administration claims that Russia's entry into the war against Japan was sought by this country to avert perhaps 1,000,000 American casualties in a frontal assault on Japan. Secretary of State Dean Acheson has said this concern prompted the February, 1945, Yalta conference concessions to Russia of port and rail rights in Manchuria. In return the Soviets agreed to enter the fight against Japan shortly after V-E Day. Called Unnecessary. The Bridges report was to the effect that Russian entry into the Far Eastern war was not only unnecessary, but actually would topple Chiang's government and quite possibly mean a third world war soon.

The committee Thursday completed two days of stormy and sometimes apparently contradictory testimony from Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley, ret., formerly ambassador to China and now a critic of U.S. China policy and the state department. Hurley said that President Roosevelt became disillusioned with the Yalta concessions shortly after the 1945 conference and shortly before his death. Hurley said that for this reason Mr. Roosevelt sent him to Moscow to seek changes in the agreement with Josef Stalin. Hurley said his hopes to change the agreement died aborning when the state department informed him after Roosevelt's death that the United States was "irrevocably" committed to the Yalta arrangement.

The shippers agreed to grant the NMU a 44-hour week at sea and 40 hours in port at 48 hours pay retroactive to June 16, when the seamen's contract expired and a 40-hour week at sea effective next June. But the NMU wanted the 40-hour at sea schedule to begin next Dec. 16 and refused to budge from that demand. Frank J. Taylor, spokesman for the east and Gulf coast shippers, said they had reached an agreement with the NMU, pacesetters in the maritime industry on wage issues and on other major contract matters. He said both sides had agreed to an 8% pay increase over the 10% levels of Jan. 15, 1950, and a three-week vacation for seamen. They also were in accord on an $8 increase for lodging and subsistence and the shippers agreed to step up rates for serving extra meals from 30 to 50 cents.

Springfield Halts CD Test

Confusion caused by sirens in nearby communities has led Springfield Civil Defense Council to cancel the test federal "red alert" air raid warning at noon on Saturdays. Instead, the present one siren in the township will be run up to high speed once and then permitted to die down.

At a meeting of the CD council in the township building Thursday night it was stated that sirens in adjoining communities used warring signals to indicate fires, causing Springfield residents to confuse the signals with the air raid warning signal. Council consequently decided to change its test signal, at least until the confusion was cleared up. Auxiliaries Needed. A report from Division 2 (security) indicated that more auxiliary police and wardens are required. Anyone willing to serve in either capacity should contact Ross E. Osborne, 50 S. Rolling road, phone Swarthmore 6-3185.

Royce Beatty, chief of Division 4 (Utilities, transportation, industries) also called for additional workers. Cars and drivers are needed for the township's civilian motor corps. Those willing to assist should communicate with Robert Race, of 225 Avon road, phone Swarthmore 6-2353 or A. T. McGrath, 237 Powell road, phone Swarthmore 6-5153. William E. Black, chief of Division 3 (communications) reported that the first auxiliary siren had been installed. If a report on an inspection held Thursday is favorable, three more such sirens will be installed, he said. Council extended its thanks to Theodore W. Strausser, 278 S. Norwin drive, who installed the first siren.

Pigeon Report. Victor D. Light, in charge of the carrier pigeon section of Division 3, reported that progress had been made by his section. He said that he hoped to arrange an exchange of pigeons with fanciers in other areas so that, in the event of failure of other systems of communication, "foreign" pigeons in Springfield lots could be released to help home lots bearing messages. He expected to have foreign pigeons in Springfield lots, he said, as soon as the mating and racing seasons ended.

W. P. Renaley, amateur radio operator, stated that his transmitter is now operating on an emergency network, route 13. At present he uses house current and has no auxiliary power available. It was stated that an emergency power supply will be available at Central School, Saxon avenue, as permission has been obtained from the local school board. Renaley also reported that he will take part in a combined Delaware-Chester counties ham operator drill on Tuesday. He pointed out the need for a mobile radio unit in the township, and council decided that one should be installed in Renaley's car. The use of walkie-talkies as a third radio link will be considered.

The chief of Division 7 (technical defense), J. W. Hill, reported that his division would be ready to start drills by July 10. The division's equipment will be stored at Central School, he said. By August, Hill said, he hoped to hold a combined drill with Division 3. Hill said that recent experiments at Eniwetok indicated that casualties from radioactivity were comparatively slight compared with those from blast. As notification of approved insignia for use by civil defense workers has not yet been received from federal authorities, it was decided that World War II civilian defense insignia would be used by township CD workers in the meanwhile.

Japanese Beetle Quarantine Slated. Harrisburg (INS) — A federal-state quarantine against Japanese beetles will be imposed in the heavily infested southeastern Pennsylvania counties June 26. State Agriculture Secretary Miles Horst said the insects are expected to emerge from the ground within the next week. The quarantine will continue into late August or early September, he added. All loads of corn on the cob, cabbage, fresh beans in the pod, apples, and peaches in refrigerated trucks and railroad cars will require clearance when being shipped to points outside the quarantine area, Horst explained. Counties effected by the restrictions will be: Adams, Berks, Bucks, Chester, Cumberland, Dauphin, Delaware, Franklin, Lancaster, Lebanon, Lehigh, Montgomery, Northampton, Philadelphia and York.

was sentenced in 1949 to life imprisonment. The state used also as its prosecutor Dr. Gyula Alapi, the man who convinced the Catholic primate of Hungary. Among the defendants is Dr. Alajos Pongracz who had been employed by the American legation in Budapest. The trial is being held in the Marko Street Courthouse, scene of the trials of Mindszenty and American Robert A. Vogel, an official of the International Telephone & Telegraph Corp., who recently was freed from a 15-year term after conviction on charges of espionage. The archbishop, in addition to his admissions about activities aimed at the overthrow of the government, pleaded guilty to participating in black market currency deals. He said, too, that he had aided the escape from Hungary of persons sought by the justice department.

Nothing has been heard since. British and French search planes were flying low over the river-slashed, rain-soaked jungle country without finding a trace of the plane. Every available plane in the area was thrown into the search over the steaming jungles and rough plains of Liberia which was established as a republic in the early 1800's as a haven for freed American slaves. All commercial planes on the route along the big bulge of Africa's west coast were alerted.

The house-approved measure was returned to the local government committee. It was sponsored by Rep. Henry C. Spencer, R., Lackawanna, and Rep. James N. Robertson, R., Delaware. It was described by Sen. Hugh J. McCammon, D., Lackawanna, as "unsound legislation." He said it could open the door to small municipalities withdrawing from larger ones after street repairs and other municipal improvements have been completed at the expense of the larger unit.

Love Gromack Is Acquitted

By International News Service. Miss Love Gromack, 38-year-old divorcee, was acquitted of murder charges Thursday in Philadelphia in the shooting of Mrs. Nancy Gouvain, wife of a navy chief petty officer. The defendant, however, was held in $1200 bail to face two remaining bills of indictment charging manslaughter and carrying concealed deadly weapons. Mrs. Gouvain was slain at the bar of a mid-Philadelphia VFW post last Dec. 31. Judge Francis Shunk Brown Jr. ordered a witness, Francis O'Halloran, 29, once a suspect in the shooting, held pending further investigation of conflicting testimony by two other witnesses.

Newville Interchange, Considered on Pike

Harrisburg (UP)—The Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission today studied the possibility of putting a new interchange on the toll road at Newville, Pa. Officials said they had conferred recently with a group of citizens from the community who were desirous of having an exit on the road placed there. A spokesman for the turnpike said the suggestion is being "seriously considered." He would not say whether it would replace any of the other nearby interchanges. Reports were established that the interchange was established at Newville, the Blue Mountain interchange might be eliminated.

American Soldiers Hate Iced Coffee

Atlantic City (UP)—The American soldier likes meat, potatoes and chocolate cake best, according to R. Palmer Benedict, civilian adviser to the quartermaster corps in Washington. Iced coffee, chilled asparagus salad and cauliflower with cheese sauce are the things he can best do without, in that order, Benedict told the American Society for testing material yesterday. Benedict said that a survey among 14,000 soldiers in army camps in the United States reveals that fresh lettuce, tomatoes and fresh buttered corn also are well-liked.

American Plane Missing with 39

Dakar, French West Africa (UP)—A Pan-American Airways constellation carrying 39 persons from South Africa to New York was missing today. It was believed to have crashed in the steaming jungles of Liberia. The plane last radio contact after passing over Roberts Field at Monrovia, Liberia. It ran into a violent rain storm and radioed at 3.30 a. m. (11.30 p. m. Thursday EDT) that it was returning to Monrovia in 15 minutes to land. Nothing has been heard since. British and French search planes were flying low over the river-slashed, rain-soaked jungle country without finding a trace of the plane.
